2019-2020
Seattle University School of Law
Conditions of Award for School of Law Scholarships

- Both the scholarship award and the Conditions of Award contained herein are non-negotiable.

- School of Law scholarships, in the form of tuition remission, are made by the Admission Committee. They are offered in addition to other financial aid for which a recipient may qualify, but may impact the levels and types of funding for which a student is eligible. Scholarship amounts are typically divided and applied equally between fall and spring semesters of the first year.

- A recipient must enroll as a student at the School of Law during the academic year for which the award is granted. There are no award deferments.

- A recipient must enroll for the number of credits considered a "full load" in his or her applicable program of study (full or part-time). In no case may a scholarship recipient enroll for fewer than 8 credits during fall or spring semesters.

- Some scholarships awarded to entering students are renewable, provided that each recipient maintains a cumulative law school grade point average that places them in the percentage of the class (e.g. top 50% or top 75%) indicated on the reverse side of this letter. Students are evaluated for scholarship renewal at the end of each spring semester. Scholarship retention rates and other ABA required disclosures are available on our website at: http://www.law.seattleu.edu/about-us/aba-required-disclosures.

- The School of Law reserves the right to revoke a scholarship if a recipient is found to be in violation of the Academic Standards Code or the Student Code of Conduct.

- The School of Law reserves the right to revoke a scholarship if a recipient is found to be currently in default on educational loans received at this or previous institutions of higher education.

- Conditions for receipt of scholarship aid include implicit permission by the recipient for the school to publish the recipient’s name (and summary biographical data, as may be applicable) in catalogs, brochures, and related university literature. The School of Law reserves the right to withdraw its offer of scholarship aid to any person failing to agree to these terms.

- Persons wishing for further clarification of the policies and procedures outlined here may contact the Office of Admission at 206.398.4200 or see our website: http://law.seattleu.edu/Office_and_Administration/Student_Financial_Services.xml

- Questions regarding other forms of financial aid, including federal and private loan programs, should be directed to Student Financial Services at 206.398.4250 or lawfa@seattleu.edu.